Stephen Allen earned his Juris Doctorate Degree and a Certificate of Governmental Affairs from the McGeorge School of Law in 1998. He graduated from San Jose State University in 1990 with a B.A. in Political Science and a Minor in Communication Studies.

When asked about what he believes is the Metropolitan District's greatest challenge, Director Allen responds: "Recognizing that much of Colorado is again experiencing below-average snowpack, it seems evident that regional population and water consumption trajectories are on a collision course with shrinking ground water supplies in the Denver Basin Aquifer System from which millions of people annually draw. As a practical matter, I believe the Metropolitan District needs to complete phase three of the InterConnect Pipeline Project and secure more renewable water as quickly and efficiently as possible."
